

The Potting Shed started with beautiful old Crittall windows sourced from a 1950's East London factory. We designed and built the Potting Shed around them, bringing them back to life with a new purpose. Care was taken to install just the right fixtures and fittings to perfectly complement the feel of the windows and to add just the right amount of luxury.

With all mod-cons, the client wanted to heat the cabin's water via an electric boiler as well as utilising gas bottles for the kitchen, to save space these were carefully housed in a custom-designed external cupboard which could be easily accessed at the rear of the cabin, whilst remaining in keeping with the aesthetic of the build.

The Potting Shed

Placed in South Oxfordshire near a natural swimming lake, The Potting Shed, fondly named after its rustic finish and charming tin roof, is one of our largest builds to date. Bespoke decking was added along the length of the cabin providing further outdoor seating and entertaining space, an important element pulling the build into its surrounding wildflower meadow.

As one of our 'cabin' builds, The Potting Shed was assembled on a chassis and wheels so it could be easily moved into position; a popular option allowing the structure to be moved, or entirely relocated in the future.
